

LOCAL NEWS

San Rafael nonprofit holds camp to empower youths

By MARIN INDEPENDENT JOURNAL

April 11, 2024 at 2:40 p.m.

Alcohol Justice, a nonprofit organization in San Rafael, organized a free camp this week to deter youths from alcohol and drug use.

The free program, scheduled during spring break from schools, was held from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Students participated in workshops, trainings, public speaking and peer pressure discussions.

The camp was held in the Canal neighborhood.

Alexia Ku Ramirez, 12, addresses her peers during a public speaking at a spring break day camp at Alcohol Justice in San Rafael, Calif., on Wednesday, April 10, 2024. (Sherry LaVars/Marin Independent Journal)